NOI THE PROPERTY OF STANDARD OF STANDARD TO STANDARD T

The country is indeed tired of sectional For a quarter of a century there has been a sectional division of political parties led by every circumstance of acerbity and bitterness, including the terrible inci-dents of a great war which awakened passions too fierce to be entirely cooled during the time of any now living. That war closed when those who had begun it ware unable longer to continue the contest; but there was scarcely a luli in the sectional strife of which it was a part. To this day that strife has continued, and at this day the sectional division of parties is as sharply defined as it was at the beginning. A majority of the people, at the state can give away a properly that it least a majority of the people of the northern never owned, coupled with the assettion of a of it and would gladit tee put an end to sectional strife by surrender to sectional demands. It is the intense sectionalism of the solid south that creates this division of parties on sectional issues and sec-tional lines. The republican party is as little to be blamed for it now as it was when this ectional division became fint the leading feature of our national politics.

The first necessary condition towards abutement of sectional swife in absordance by the southern states of the policy which causes tional division of parties. It is not so for a mirtifular party as it is the means by Fair play in the south would break the solidof the south. Given free discussion, a lair yote and an honest count in the southern states, and sectional politics there would or disappear. The democratic party would Sabulors doids tadt as appropri as maine to the war, it is sufficiently apparent where the blame should be placed for that sectional division of parties which is pronounced so great an evil. So long as alavery existed it so long as the present despotism exists, a des-potism which denies the free expression of mblic ppinion, refuses a fair ballot and falsifrom the count of votes, just so long will con-tention prevail. Men will not be allent witnesses of a great wrong. They must and will protest. In the certainty that wrong will be remated lies the only hope of right. a sharp decline in government securities, and methods by charging the protesters with beses to be solid for sectional purposes. And this result would be helped on visity if the northern democracy would cease for party advantage to urge the south to maintain its We shall have sectional

By the remark in regard to right of way over state lands if was meant simply that this right or privilege sould be one of no great importance, se the road might nowhere great importance, as the rose magas inwastes souch the state lands. The lands of the state are limited in amount and a railwar might be built through the cuties state without touching them anywhere. This was all that was meant But as Mr. Reid seems to think the right of way over state lanes an important thing for his company he ought to have it. No objection should be made to any reasonable request for accommodation to those who wish to build railways. Every proper and practicable facility ought to be afforded without question. But while we say this, we must be equally positive in protesting against an act of the company which our ultizens cannot-but regard as a flagrant wrong. This journal would be unwarthy of public confidence if it failed to voice the public protest against such an act attempted by any corporation whatever; and meither the Oregonian Railway Company nor its general manager must expect exemp-tion from criticism when such an act is attempted in their interest and on their part We are pleased to learn from Mr. Reid's communication that the prospects of the comroad, he says, "will be built into Portland by September next if not stopped by adverse leg-lation of the nature which The Obsquark recommends to the state legislature against na." To adopt his own words, we regret exceedingly to be compelled from time to time to answer mistatements like that presented in the last part of the above quotation. We urgs no legislation whatever against the npany. On the contrary, we should earnestly oppose such legislation, were it pro-posed. This company is entitled to the same fair treatment which has been accorded to others. It must not be embarrassed by onerous requirements. But it is entitled to no special privilege. It should not be permitted to seize and convert to its private use the property o coerce public opinion on the subject of temperance by legislation. The Onngonian remarked that we have laws on that subject now which are in advance of public opinion and that until we can execute and enforce spirit of cauder. It is not the they cannot be. This is especially the case with regard to the statute requiring security traffic which are constantly and notoriously violated. What town or city, for example, bers who want to drink restrictive laws are Momie Cloths. there is no read of any further prohibition or restriction than at strongest of all pro-hibitory conditions as market. A member of the Acgislature for Marion county has been sto tly asserting "the sovereign right of the state over the ground known eight right of the state over the ground known as the public leves in Portland." How came the state in possession of this "sovereign right?" The levee was a gift to the city of Portland by the first owner of the ground for the use of the public. Subsequently, to settle all question of title, the city paid the pussible fact or fiction can the pretense be supported that it belongs to the state. It is the property of the city of Portland, as the court house square of Salem is the property of Marion county. The state, therefore, can not give away that to which it has no shadow never owned, coupled with the assertion of a right to take properly which the city of Portland hold for a public use and confer it on a the meaning of the Marion member's seertion of "the edversion right of the state" over the public leves in Pertiand. It is unwar-rantable and absurd.

Gen, Hancock in his character of a green-backer is receiving attentions from the centern press. He telegraphed to Plaisted, the green-back chieffein of Maine, in these woods: Accept my congratulations on the decions result of your campaign. It will imprise our friends with conditions and strengthen them in the preliminary builds which remaints to be fought elsewhere and which need all of our forces.

This coquetry with those who are trying to force upon the country the paralelous and dangerous doctrines of inflation and fistism to encouragement and endomement of loos paper money ideas, and shows that the political virtue of Gen. Hancock is of that easy cose half the southern states in the very first | kind which would do snything for success. Selection. But since the south is held by a blunder he made in congratulating a greenbacker on the "glorious result" of an election ly at the public debt, sound currency and the principles which lie at the basis of public and private credit. It is a case in which the loy of an eager candidate got the better of his hen it comes to practical agriculture our the Illinois larmer who kept stiring the dusty soil among his corn, and who did well by it, &c. This is also vary well, but how does it faily with etalements in other places gencephing comparative values of spring and full crops? The spring sown grain, Mr. Atkinson observed, was not so good as the fail grain. All know that has been ground sown in the spring will be much more loos and porous than the same ground sown in fall, with the winter storms to settle it, and is we fariners say, "make it beld moisture better" Along the Indian trail he noticed the weeds were green and growing, while the vegetation at one side was brown and dry. Dees the trampling of cayuse poneys loosen up the soil? The farmer rolls the land after seeding to settle the earth about the seed, causing the suil to better retain. All gardeners know that in transplanting plants the roots to keep out the dry air and retain the moisture, otherwise many of the plants will periats. Heavy soils, that have a considerable admixture of clay, rectain moisture better than loose, and you state the troots to keep out the dry air and retain the moisture, otherwise many of the plants will periats. Heavy soils, that have a considerable admixture of clay, rectain moisture obster than loose, and you state the could be allowed make feets which will apply in special cases only annear? Some saids should be plowed andy soils do.

In Mr. Atkinson's statements there is, no doubt, much truth. But the trouble is he would make facts which will apply in special cases only, general. Some soils should be plowed deep, some shallow, to obtain the best results. Some should be stirred often, others are not benefited thereby.

There are many phenomena which admit of come snown be shared other, others are an activated thereby.

There are many phenomena which admit of very simple explanation. Mr. Atkinson speaks of the bunch grass being dry and brown and lays it to the drying of the unshired soll in which the grass grows. The bunch grass does not turn brown and dry in July so much for want of moditure as from the fact that it has "made its self." Its summer's work of growth, bloowing and seeding, is done, and like all other herbscoots plants, it then dies. If he had looked he would have seen many plants among the secous plants, it then dies. If he not secous plants, it then dies. If he not secoud have seen many plants among the bunch grass green and thriby. The dry sage brush grass, growing over our hills is not get in bloom, The green weeds which Mr. Atkinson held were not green amidet the bloom. The green weeds which Mr. Altiment saw slong the trail were not green amidst the brown grass because the soil had been loosened or tecause it had been fromed by the trainpling of ponyes, but no desubt lecause they were annuals which had not yet completed their summer's work.

UNION, Sept. 20.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I was somewhat interested in an article by the Rev. G. H. Aktinson on, "Our Restern Empire," in the Oregonian of the 28th ult. While I mean no disreppet to that gentleman, or his opinions, I must differ with him on some points. He says!

"The dry sage brush even respires a large amount of water, and finds it in the cartil house and by its roots."

The dry sage brush even respires a large amount of water, and finds it in the cartil house and by its roots."

Judging from the situation in which it often grows one would think that green sage brush does not require much moisture, and SII Mr. Aktinson tells how he knows to the contrary, I should say that the dry sage brush requires; noned at all, Again, "The air is like an housenry sponge. Its power to hold vapor invisibly increases; in an exact measure with his increase in an areact measure with his increase."
